

WEBINAR PROGRAM

Re-imagining Total Rewards

Supporting greater employee and organizational well-being

Tuesday, June 5 | 11:45 – 1:00 Pacific

Via Webinar

No Cost

Register online

We appreciate your registration by June 4th.

Managing a workforce so your business stays competitive in a tough economy is challenging. Years of cost-cutting, program-gutting tactics have left everyone stressed and disengaged. And too often the investments organizations do make go undervalued, underutilized and/or misunderstood. It's safe to say that it's time to reimagine total rewards so that individuals can enhance their total well-being and organizations can achieve their desired results. Our presenters will discuss:

- The case for change – from total rewards to total well-being
- Moments that matter – when employees want to engage, take the opportunity to tout benefits
- Using technology to enhance the employee experience
- Total rewards in action – actual program metrics
- Getting started – where to go from here

Lori Block is a principal in Conduent Human Resource Services' award-winning Engagement Practice, specializing in strategic planning and innovative solutions to address a wide array of HR, employee benefit, and compensation issues. Will Whittle is a Director in Conduent Human Resource Services' Client Technology group, focusing on the design and implementation of engagement strategies for employees and retirees. Together, Will and Lori have more than four decades of experience in HR communications and consulting, serving a wide range of organizations, from technology to manufacturing and retail, as well as governmental and quasi-governmental entities.

Professional Development Credits available by attending this session:

Approved for 1 CEBS continuing professional education (CPE) credit.

Approved for 1 Recertification Credit Hour through HR Certification Institute® (HRCI®).

Approved for 1 PDC toward SHRM-CP and SHRM-SCP recertification.